CARING THROUGH WARMTH AND RYTHYM

Dear Friends of Anthroposophic Nursing
Around the World

When we imagine the situation of anthroposophic nursing, when we collect news and thoughts from our colleagues all over the world, when we listen to the voices of those who are connected in the meditation of the nurses' verse, then we find a very differentiated and colorful picture. There are severe attacks against Anthroposophy in many European countries, we regret a deep splitting in statements about pandemic and vaccination issues in the anthroposophic communities as well as in our families. We find the awakening of a global consciousness regarding ecological questions. And there are much more questions than answers.

We look on such amazing and encouraging events like the opening of the beautiful "Haus of Warmth", an initiative of our French colleagues, or on the multiprofessional IPMT in Colombia with a Pan-South American group of nurses or an international online seminar organized by the University of Chile, or the public anthroposophic conference in Malaysia with more than 1.300 participants! We are at the beginning of long-lasting transformation process. We call it pandemic or climate change – and we know that these are the labor pains of the consciousness soul.

The IFAN Steering Committee invites you to an online three-hour seminar. The seminar will be held in three languages and three time zones.

on Saturday and Sunday, March 12 and 13.

In March 2021 many friends gathered to participate in an online program that served to connect and nourish us. We offer this opportunity again to all nurses who feel connected to Anthroposophy to join in the second annual IFAN worldwide online seminar.

We propose the following program:

1	Welcome		15 Min.
2	Text-Study	"Manifestation of Karma", Lecture 10, "Free Will and Karma in the Future of Human Evolution" by Rudolf Steiner. This lecture is also one of the suggested readings for the Annual Conference of the Medical Section in Sept. 2022. We encourage you to prepare for this. (60 min, break 5	45 Min + 5 Min

Dear Laurie,

On behalf of the teacher recognition circle of colleagues, it is my joy to share the successful conclusion of your application for approval as a NAANA teacher.

Thanks for your patience with this process unfolding as it did.

We are fortunate to share in the connection to the caring stream of life. The enlightening insights we have gained, and the enrichment of experiences, have opened our hearts to the reality of man and nature.

I look forward to the new paths of comprehension you will add to this endless source of abundance.

With Michaelic Greetings,

Elizabeth

Wishes, Campaign Success & A Lakota Winter Story

Campaign success!

We are pleased to share that as of today LWS has received over $29,228 in annual fund gifts -- which means we exceeded our campaign goal of $25,000!

Thank you for generosity. Thank you for helping us to provide tuition-free indigenous Waldorf education to children living on one of the poorest Indian reservations in the states.

The following "Lakota Winter Story" is an example of the integration of Lakota culture into our Waldorf educational program - which has been made possible through generous grants and gifts we've received from good people like you.

"Wazi" - A Lakota Winter Story

Teacher

Carlson, LWS's 1st-3rd Grade
Teacher

(Wazi is short for Waziyata, which means North in Lakota.)

Wazi was a boy who lived with his people when the Lakota hunted buffalo and the land was free. Wazi wanted to go on a journey of the vision quest. He would go in the winter months where most went in the spring. He sat on a high peak above the land of the Lakota. It was cold and snowy, but Wazi felt at home within the fallen snow.

In his vision he sees the hardships his people will have to face in the future. He was shown where medicines lie for the benefit of the people. He found the sacred roots and medicine that lay within the land and these medicines will be used for future generations to come. He was told that sickness will wash away with the snowfalls to come, the falling snow is purifying. And that the seasons were a sacred blessing for the people. Within change we always find the goodness it brings.

We must replenish ourselves to carry on and Wazi learned it on his quest. The visions of the people remain strong, even today the dreams continue along with the seasons of change.

To all our LWS Friends & Families,

As blankets of cold and snow come to cover Mother Earth this holiday season, please know that we hold you close in thought and send the warmest of wishes. May your homes be warm and safe. May your hearts be blessed by family and friends. And may we all be renewed in soul and spirit for our continued work in the new year ahead.

Kimberton Area Anthroposophic Medicine and Therapies

by Elizabeth Sustick

Seeking healers with pioneering spirits

Are you looking for a community in which to put down roots and work in medicine and therapies? We are three communities inspired by Steiner's tri-ordered social forms in beautiful Chester County, PA, outside Philadelphia.

Opportunities to collaborate professionally include working with the local Camphill communities and/or working with patients at the growing nonprofit clinic, Carah Medical Arts, while living in the socially-aware greater Kimberton area.

We welcome anthroposophic physicians, nurses and therapists – including art, music, eurythmy, massage, counseling, MCLT, etc.

Learn more: www.kimbertonamt.info and contact us at kimbertonamt@gmail.com.

We look forward to getting to know you.

AHNA conference

Eira I. Klich-Heartt has submitted a proposal for speaking at the AHNA conference in Albuquerque, NM from Monday June 6-Saturday June 11, 2022. For more information please contact AHNA at Annual Conference \(ahna.org\)

Eira is pleased to report that her proposal has been accepted for presentation on June 10, 2022 at 09:30-11:00. Her topic is

Renewal: Plant Knowledge through Goethean Observation

By: Eira I. Klich-Heartt, DNP, CNS, ANS, AHN-BC

Medications have had plants as their beginnings. Through an experiential, phenomenological approach of Goethean observation nurses can learn to appreciate the medicinal value of plant substances. The use of plants for healing can give patients' and nurses renewed support for their condition and therapies.

Illuminating Nursing's Value: The 12 Anthroposophic Nursing Gestures

Michele R. Kramer, PhD, MSN, RN, AHN-BC, Laurie Schmiesing, MSN, RN, ANS, RES, Christoph von Dach, DNP, MSc, RN

Congratulations to Laurie Schmiesing, Michele Kramer and Christoph von Dach on their article published this past August 2021!! The article is available online to either rent or purchase.

The article makes an excellent case for quantifying nursing's value through the use of the 12 Nursing Gestures. Through the use of intentional gestures, discussion in care groups and documentation of such in electronic care records the nurses value in providing care can become more transparent and allow nursing care to be valued and quantified for healthcare.

Journal of Holistic Nursing.

Abstract

Nursing care historically has not been separated from institutional care costs. Organizations seek to quantify nursing care with no assignation of the value or uniqueness of the individual patient–nurse encounter. New models point to measuring care at this level. Nursing care encompasses tangible evidence that can be easy to quantify but, in the paradigm of healing and caring, and more specifically within the knowledge pool of holistic nursing, significant contributions are intangible and thus hard to measure. Anthroposophic nursing's 12 nursing gestures offer an integration by making intangible nursing practice tangible. They incorporate addressing the whole person and more clearly show the caring and healing aspects of nursing care. Making such intangibles of care tangible contribute to the discussion of nursing value and how it is measured in healthcare organizations. More research is needed, however, to refine and value nursing care to more accurately reflect the connection between caring, healing, and patient outcomes.
